

MISCELLANEOUS.

A MINER'S EXPERIENCE.

An old miner who has experienced explosions, thus describes them:—"As soon as the explosion occurs it drives like a whirlwind with force enough to carry any weight before it in the direction of the nearest vent. In going it sweeps along the ceiling, tearing away props, brackets and everything else, even the pillars of coal. The unfortunate miner who may be within its influence instinctively throws himself flat upon the ground. Before he can rise the gas has encountered the body of air moving in an opposite direction. They come together with an elastic shock, sufficient to change the direction of the garrison tornado, and back it comes with a rush, lifting the miner and flinging him probably a distance of fifty feet against the ragged coal. Behind again there is a shock of pure air and coal, and again the gas whirls back with undiminished fury, lifting the miner once more and casting him back whence he originally came. Again and again this terrible game of batallone is repeated. Nothing can resist its impetuosity. Meanwhile the terrible after-damp accumulates with surprising rapidity.—This is composed of the black damp which hangs from the roof; and the white damp which gathers along the floor. It joins the gas at every rush, and adds power and volume to its fury. The helpless miner struggles with superhuman strength to resist the buffeting of the mine foud, but now the damp begins to seize upon his senses. The sensation is not unpleasant. He feels slight dizziness; his knees lose all their power, and he falls."

Singular Case of Female Adventure, Devotion and Death.

[From the Oskola Northwestern, Aug. 18.] One of the most remarkable instances of woman's attachment to man and heroism under adversity came to our notice to-day. To begin at the commencement we will state that in 1859 a young lady in the city of Auburn, N. Y., the daughter of wealthy parents, eloped with a young man named Niles, a railroad engineer, and both proceeded to Cleveland, Ohio, and afterwards to Toledo. They were pursued by an infuriated brother of the young lady, and in the latter place, to avoid detection after the marriage ceremony had been performed, the young lady arrayed herself in male attire. In this disguise, and while selling apples, she passed her brother several times on the street without recognition on his part. Shortly afterward, early in the war the two went south to Nashville, Tennessee, where Niles procured employment as a locomotive engineer, his wife engaging as a fireman, still keeping up her disguise. Between Nashville and Chattanooga a shot from a rebel inflicted a serious wound upon the engineer, and he was taken to the government hospital at Murfreesboro, Tennessee. His wife followed and to her careful nursing Niles owes his life. When sufficiently recovered to endure the hardships of traveling, they returned to Cleveland. A few months later the alleged gold discoveries at Man-dock, Canada, attracted them thither and the wife accompanied her husband still in masculine garments. The vicissitudes of her career, exposed to hardships and accidents, were too severe, however, and a few weeks since she died at Cleveland after a brief illness. Niles, who is now in that city, is a man about forty years of age, and does not refer to the heroic devotion of his wife but in terms of the warmest admiration.

THE FULTZ WHEAT.

A correspondent of the Lewistown Gazette, last week refers to the origin of the Fultz wheat as follows:—"In the summer of 1862, Abraham Fultz, of Menno township, while harvesting for his neighbor, Christian Yoder, whose farm lies just across the line in Huntingdon county, noticed three beautiful heads of smooth wheat standing among the old Lancaster Red. Like a careful and observing man, he plucked them off, and taking them home, sowed the wheat that fall on a spot where a brush heap had been burned. The following year he harvested a half pint. In 1864 his crop filled a bread-basket, and 1865 he had 19 sheaves. He now parted with a bushel of the new wheat, and Christ Detweiler sowed it along the northwest side of an old orchard, where it was partly smothered by snow-drifts and shaded by apple trees, and then in the harvest of 1866 it was pronounced "scarcely worth sowing." But when threshing time came it yielded better than the Lancaster Red—then the favorite wheat among the farmers of the Kishacoquillas Valley. Mr. Detweiler felt encouraged to try it once more, and from a lot of about three acres of sandy land, he harvested ninety-four bushels of prime, clean wheat. David Detweiler now sowed thirteen bushels of the new wheat on nine acres, from which he harvested three hundred bushels. The reputation of the Fultz wheat was now established in the locality where it had originated, and the whole product was in demand at a high price for seed.

The "Digger Indians" of the Pacific slope have an unpleasant custom of burying young infants alive with the bodies of their dead mothers. Recently a young squaw of one their bands died, leaving a papoose about four months old, and it is authentically asserted that the child was placed on the body of its dead parent, and the "clouds of the valley" piled about them both.

LIFE'S greatest enjoyment is made up of anticipation.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. In various cases of Scrofulous diseases, where the system seemed saturated with it, Scrofulous affections and discharges, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers to almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scrofulous taint is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and insidious taint of the organism undermines the constitution, and strikes at the root of life, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to break into action throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develops into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the organs. In the latter instances, it may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or on other locations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional cases of Erysipelas, Erysipeloid, and other eruptions, which are so often fatal.
